Photography has been a beloved hobby of mine since I was a small child growing up in Eastern North Carolina, and working as a professional photographer is deeply rewarding. I still reside in Eastern North Carolina with my husband of 17 years, Danny. I take wedding, engagement, family, senior portraits, children, and new born photos. My love of photography doesn't stop there. Pets, wildlife and landscape photography are also passions of mine. I just love being behind the camera, what's in front of it is just a bonus. I have always been passionate about taking pictures because they can work as intimate, candid works of art that display the full range of human emotions.
